Extrapreneurs Europe

What challenge or problem are you addressing? What is the need for the project?

90% of European start-ups die out within 5 years of their creation. Old business models do not fit the current economic transition. Extrapreneurs' new brand of excubators aims to put in contact corporate champions in search for innovation with young entrepreneurs, while preparing them with the new paradigms of a sustainable, economic transition.

Objective of the project:

Extrapreneurs wishes to set up a European network of effective excubators, with the goal of each creating 10 sustainable and long-lasting new companies per semester.

Why do you need transnational cooperation?

While the low success rate of European companies is not exclusive to North-West Europe, this region possesses the best infrastructures needed to change it. International synergies would increase the ability of new companies to target larger markets.

What kind or partners are you looking for?

ExtraEurope mostly needs partnerships with existing companies willing to sponsor new projects, universities, innovation hubs, and experts to share their knowledge. Support from host cities is also welcome.
